LEGAL STUDIES

Law is pervasive in all aspects of business and life. It is part of the mission of the Legal Studies Department to provide Drexel University students with the ability to recognize the influence of the law, understand its application, and make informed and intelligent decisions regarding the course of action to take.

Students will learn the basics of various areas of the law and the legal environment of business and will learn to identify the factual situation in which to apply that law. They will be able to analyze the facts, determine which aspects of the law are pertinent, and draw a conclusion. Clarity of thought, reasoning and expression (both oral and written) are additional results of this process.

Employers who have hired Drexel students include:
Rawle and Henderson Comcast Corporation Office of the Attorney General SAP America Philadelphia School District Lannett Company, Inc. Broadlands Financial Group Susquehanna International Group Turner Investment Partners Drexel University

Students wanting specific information about the concentration are encouraged to stop by the department office in Matheson Hall, call the department at 215-895-6156, or visit their website at http://www.lebow.drexel.edu/Faculty/Departments/Legal/index.php.
