Graduate Programs' Colloquium Speaker Series Presents:

Every Click You Make, I'll Be Watching You: Quitting Facebook and Neoliberal Intimacy

When interviewing undergraduates in 2007-2008, some thought one had to quit Facebook in order to maintain a romantic relationship.

Why? Why was Facebook the medium above all other mediums that threatened romance?

In this talk, the speaker suggests that Facebook encourages, but does not insist, that users perform a neoliberal self which can be destructive for people experimenting with monogamy.
