Kaila Taylor
MS Television Management

Countless posters and fliers cover bulletin boards across Drexel's campus. Kaila Taylor admits she rarely glances at the board in her department. But one day she did, and it led to a life-changing experience.

For Taylor, a master's student in the Westphal College of Media Arts & Design television management program, the poster that caught her eye was promoting an opportunity to produce a short documentary during a month-long study abroad experience. She applied and was accepted, and late last month she returned from a trip to Quito, Ecuador, where she served as the director of a documentary about a single mother working to support her two children.

How to Maximize New Business Opportunities Through Referrals: An Online Alumni Career Services Workshop

Growing any business is more than just making cold calls. Regardless of the industry, new business opportunities require networking and relationship building. Have you ever devoted the time to learn how it's done?

On Monday, September 22, Fred Kaplan MBA '83, CBM, will teach you the 12 steps to building a referral pipeline. Understand how to optimize networking events and conduct relationship building meetings with potential referral sources. Then, leave with the skills to convert potential sources into active referral partners!

Using Interest Based Negotiating to Make More Money, Advance Your Career and Get Ahead: An Online Alumni Career Services Workshop

Whether you realize it or not, you’re engaging in dozens of negotiations every single day. From deciding where to eat lunch with your co-workers to asking your boss for a raise, negotiation is all around you.

In this practical and powerful online workshop on Wednesday, October 15, you’ll learn from negotiation expert Joe Dillon '91, the differences between interest-based and positional-based bargaining and how to leverage negotiation techniques to make more money, advance your career and get ahead in all facets of your life.

Important Alumni Career Services and Lifelong Learning Surveys
In 2012, the Drexel University Alumni Association conducted an Alumni Attitudinal Survey and learned that opportunities for professional and personal development are highly valued among our graduates. In response to your feedback, the Alumni Association has spent the past several years strengthening its career development and lifelong learning programs and services.

So that we may continue to design programs and services that meet your needs and interests moving forward, we hope that you will take a few minutes to complete one or both of our brief surveys for alumni career services and lifelong learning. Your responses will remain confidential and you may choose to skip any questions that you prefer not to answer. Thank you for your input!

Alumni Career Services in New York City: Call for Panelists

We’re seeking alumni volunteers to participate in an Alumni Career Services panel discussion on the topic of career transition which will be held in New York City in the fall of 2014. If you have transitioned from one industry to another or to a different line of work in your current industry, and you want to share your experiences and advice with fellow alumni, we want to hear from you! For more information, or to volunteer as a panelist, contact the Office of Alumni Relations at alumni@drexel.edu or 1.888.DU.GRADS.

Alumni Weekend 2015 — Volunteers Needed!

We’re already getting ready for Alumni Weekend 2015 and we need your help! The Alumni Association is looking for alumni volunteers to help plan reunion activities for the Classes of 2000, 2005 and 2010, as well as alumni from the Classes of 1965 and 1990 who will be celebrating milestone 50 and 25-year reunions. If you are a member of any of these classes and you would like to take on the role of reunion class volunteer, let us know! Contact the Office of Alumni Relations at 1.888.DU.GRADS or email alumni@drexel.edu. And remember to save the date for Alumni Weekend on Friday, May 1 and 2, 2015!

School of Public Health Discovers Increase in Autism Web Searches During Awareness Month

Autism Awareness Month each April brings blue lights and puzzle shapes out to shine in many communities — but does it actually lead to increased autism awareness? According to a new analysis of web search trends by researchers at Drexel University, it does appear to drive an increase in Google searches for autism — by a third over searches in March in recent years.

Brian K. Lee, PhD, an assistant professor in the Drexel University School of Public Health and research fellow of the A.J. Drexel Autism Institute, was senior author of the study with public health doctoral student Elizabeth DeVilbiss, published early online this month in the Journal of Autism and Developmental Disorders. >>
