

DOCTORAL FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM

DREXEL UNIVERSITY
Urban Health Collaborative
Dornsife School of Public Health

Prospective doctoral students are eligible for the Urban Health Collaborative Doctoral Fellowship Program. Fellows will be supported to conduct urban health research under the mentorship of a faculty research sponsor.

Fellows will receive a stipend, full tuition remission and additional support for research and travel. Awards are renewable for a second year with consideration for a third.

The mission of the Urban Health Collaborative is to improve health in cities by increasing scientific knowledge and public awareness of health and health variation within cities, and by promoting urban policies and partnerships that promote health and reduce health inequalities.

Eligibility

Incoming students enrolling in a full-time doctoral program at the Dornsife School of Public Health who are interested in conducting research related to urban health are eligible for this fellowship.

Application Process

UHC Doctoral Fellows will be nominated by departmental admission committees based on academic excellence and interest in urban health research as expressed in their doctoral application.

- DrPH in Community Health and Prevention (deadline: January 15)
- PhD in Epidemiology (deadline: December 15)

UHC Doctoral Fellowship Contact

Amy Confair, MPH at arc333@drexel.edu