

The background of the slide is a photograph of a grand, classical-style building, likely a university hall or library. It features a series of tall, fluted columns supporting an ornate pediment. The building is made of light-colored stone or marble. The image is slightly faded and serves as a backdrop for the text.

Drexel University Office of Government and Community Relations

OGCR Strategic Plan

Brian T. Keech
Vice President

Mission Statement

The Office of Government and Community Relations serves Drexel University by administering and maintaining the University's relationships with City, State and Federal elected officials and government agencies, as well as with civic leaders and representatives from community based organizations. In pursuit of our mission, we conduct ourselves in a highly visible and ethical manner.

Executive Summary

OCGR has refined its mission and has established six goals and objectives aligned with the academic priorities identified in the University's strategic plan.

The Office of Government and Community Relations (OGCR) has established a departmental Code of Conduct to guide our department as a value-added component to the University both internally and externally. This Code serves as a guide to promote good behavior and sound judgment, maintaining individual and institutional integrity.

OGCR Strategic Plan

The Office of Government and Community Relations's strategic business plan comprises the following goals and objectives.

- I. Develop and strengthen relationships with City, State and Federal officials, as well as with representatives from governmental, healthcare and community agencies
- II. Inform key legislators on issues concerning higher education and health care public policy development and legislation
- III. Establish and maintain collaborative efforts between institutions of higher education to influence City, State and Federal legislation impacting Drexel University
- IV. Coordinate community service initiatives locally at Drexel's Main Campus, Center City Campus, Queen Lane Campus and their surrounding neighborhoods
- V. Align the goals and objectives of the OGCR closely with the University's strategic priorities
- VI. Implement on-going ethics and compliance training plans for the OGCR staff, which will include other members of the University where appropriate

Goals and Objectives
