

CRIMINAL JUSTICE

Criminal justice draws on the strengths of many programs including philosophy, legal studies, sociology, psychology, political science, information science, chemistry, biology, and computer science. This degree is for students who want to prepare for careers in criminal justice, cybercrime, private security, or the legal profession. The criminal justice major prepares students for graduate study in criminal justice or associated disciplines, including forensic science and law. The program also offers minors in computer crime and paralegal studies.

The goals for the criminal justice program include the following:

- To provide excellent, cutting edge preparation for students planning to enter graduate study of criminal justice, law and law-related programs.
- To prepare students for upper level employment in the criminal justice system at local, state and federal levels.
- To communicate an understanding of crime, criminal behavior and the criminal justice system which will create aware citizens as voters, taxpayers, planners and decision-makers.
