COMPUTING & SECURITY TECHNOLOGY

From webmasters, content developers, and database specialists to network and system administrators, computer systems security managers, and computing technologists, these professionals serve as key agents in the societal revolution that is changing us from an industrial to a digital knowledge-based society.

The bachelor of science in computing and security technology (BSCST) provides hands-on experience in managing and operating computer servers, networks, Web and mobile systems, and databases with particular attention to secure operations. BSCST majors tend to be hands-on and like to master the technical details to make complex systems work smoothly and securely.

Students must choose one of two concentrations: Computing Technology or Computer Security.

Students who are interested in specific information about the major are encouraged to stop by the department office in Room 306 of the Rush Building, call the department at 215.895.2474, or visit drexel.edu/cci.
