DESIGN & MERCHANDISING

Students in the Design & Merchandising program develop an appreciation for style and product quality, learn to communicate verbally and visually about design across traditional and emerging media, and gain the business knowledge and skills required to promote an aesthetically grounded point of view in the global marketplace.

The Design & Merchandising program at Drexel University's Antoinette Westphal College of Media Arts & Design educates and prepares students to effect change through creative problem solving in design and commerce. Through an interdisciplinary approach, we strive to graduate adaptable, creative, confident and passionate professionals who are technologically adept and globally aware.

Through the classroom, co-op experience, and study abroad opportunities, the program prepares students to create, merchandise, market, promote, and distribute fashion product based on knowledge of visual/aesthetic and business considerations. Design & Merchandising students graduate with the knowledge and skills needed for success in traditional and emerging roles in the global marketplace, and as practical and responsible corporate citizens who will make the world a more compelling, beautiful place in which to live and work.

Design & Merchandising majors typically focus study in the areas of fashion and fashion-related retail merchandising, product development and product promotions. Elective credits may be used for a concentration in Retail Buying & Merchandising, Fashion Product Development, Fashion Promotion & Special Events, Merchandising Technologies, and Design Management for Design & Merchandising. Elective credits may also provide students with an option to minor in business administration, art history, product design, or to pursue other specific educational goals.
