HIRE A CO-OP
Drexel offers undergraduate, graduate, and international co-op programs where students gain hands-on, in-the-workplace experience. Students typically work in six-month co-op cycles, Fall/Winter and Spring/Summer, giving employers the opportunity to fill positions on a year-round basis with two different students. Through co-op, employers can build a pipeline of proven talent from which to recruit and hire. Visit drexel.edu/scde/employers for more information.
Since 1919, Drexel University, located in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, has been a pioneer in cooperative education. Through the co-op program, Drexel works with over 1,700 national and international employers in business, government, technology, and other industries. Co-op students are ideal employees; their unique learning experiences in and out of the classroom prepare them to contribute significantly to their employers’ success.
