CHAIR OF THE SCHOOL OF NURSING,
UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA

DIRECTOR, EXELON CORPORATION

TRUSTEE, SEI INVESTMENTS

“Rosemarie Greco has been a trailblazer in terms of leadership in both the business sector and more recently in the public sector. She began her career in the banking industry in a position that was open to her at the time as a woman—that of secretary.

Because of her talent and leadership qualities, she worked her way up to being considered the highest-ranking woman in the banking industry as CEO of the 18th largest national bank in America.”

—Lynn Yeakel, Vision 2020
Founder and Co-Chair

Greco is an accomplished business, government and civic leader. Until December 2009, she was Pennsylvania Gov. Ed Rendell’s director of the Office of Health Care Reform — the first appointee to this newly created Cabinet-level position. Before joining the Rendell administration, Greco counseled CEOs and businesses as the founding principal of GRECOventures Ltd.

Greco spent 23 years in the banking industry, rising from secretary to become one of the top-ranking women in the industry. During her tenure as president of CoreStates Financial Corp. the $45 billion institution was ranked one of America's most profitable and efficient banks.

She has served the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the City of Philadelphia many times as a leader or member of task forces, boards, councils, and commissions concerning, among other things, the judiciary, banking, education reform, drug-prevention, and city planning.

Greco has served as a corporate director or trustee of several Fortune 500 companies.

A magna cum laude graduate of St. Joseph's University, Greco holds honorary degrees from Temple University, Cabrini College, Albright College, and Thomas Jefferson University.
