PHILADELPHIA, PENNSYLVANIA

Dear Graduates,

Congratulations on reaching this major milestone in your academic career, professional development and life's journey. You can take pride in graduating from a university that, with your significant contributions, is pushing the frontiers with experiential learning, exceptional industry partnerships, translational research and civic engagement for the benefit of humanity.

No one scales great heights of achievement alone. You have not only fulfilled all the rigorous requirements of your respective schools and programs but benefitted from the mentoring of Drexel's outstanding faculty, support from your family and friends, and learned from your peers, neighbors and employers. You also have met, if not exceeded, high expectations — yours and ours. In congratulating you, I salute everyone who has played a part in your success and is sharing in this celebration.

Wherever you are headed in your professional careers and personal journeys, I hope, first, that you will never hesitate to call on our faculty and professional staff for references and counsel.

Second, I hope just as much that you will make the most of Drexel's strong global alumni network. Keep in touch with your classmates with whom you have forged special bonds. Update the Drexel Magazine staff on personal or professional milestones by writing to magazine@drexel.edu. Join Dragon Network (dragonnetwork.drexel.edu), and other alumni networks specialized around professional, cultural and personal interests. Consider becoming a volunteer to mentor current Drexel students and to advise and recruit prospective students.

And please return to campus to pay us a visit as often as you can.

We are incredibly proud to send you forth bearing a Drexel diploma, which affirms your readiness to make a positive difference in your places of work, in your creative and professional pursuits, and with the individuals and communities you will be privileged to serve. What you have achieved at Drexel, and the way you have achieved it — with integrity and respect for others — fills me with hope for the future.

On behalf of the trustees, faculty and professional staff of Drexel University, I wish you a life full of joy, good health and much success.

Warm regards,

John Fry
President

KEYNOTE SPEAKER:REGGIE SHOWERSWorld champion racer, mentor, motivational speaker and amputee advocate

Overcoming tremendous challenges, Reggie Showers has become a role model for young people around the world. At the age of 14, he was involved in an electrical accident that could have easily smashed the dreams of a young boy from West Philadelphia. As a result of the accident, both of his legs were amputated below the knees. After years of hard work, determination and sacrifice, Mr. Showers realized his childhood dream of becoming a champion motorcycle racer.

Mr. Showers is currently the lead instructor for the Urban Youth Racing School's "Build A Dream" program, which has provided STEM-based curriculum programs to traditionally underserved children for the last 25 years. They introduce children to the many opportunities in the motorsports industry. Mr. Showers also works for College Park Industries, a prosthetic foot manufacturer based in Warren, Michigan.

An accomplished pilot, inspirational speaker, certified snowboard instructor and marathoner, Mr. Showers' accomplishments exemplify what the disabled can achieve when they learn to believe in themselves. He travels the world visiting hospitals, rehab centers, high schools and leadership conferences, hoping to instill a "never-say-die" attitude in audiences. He has shared his story with the nation's wounded heroes at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington, D.C. and has taught members of the Wounded Warrior Project, in addition to helping survivors of the Boston Marathon bombing to master snowboarding.

In recent years, Mr. Showers walked across the Serengeti Plain in Africa as part of a National Geographic Channel documentary, "Myigrations." In 2016, he completed the 26.2-mile Chicago Marathon. In the summer of 2017, he was part of the Range of Motion Project's elite team of amputee and able-bodied climbers who ascended Cayambe, an 18,000-foot stratovolcano in Ecuador, as part of a fundraising effort that benefitted amputees in developing countries. He organized a fundraiser that raised more than $20,000 for the Shriners Children's health care system.

Joseph R. Syrnick '69, '71

Visionary Leadership in Transforming the Schuylkill Riverfront

Joseph Syrnick is a civil engineer whose efforts to redevelop the Tidal Schuylkill River have restored the waterway's shimmering promise in Philadelphia and the region.

As president and chief executive officer of the nonprofit Schuylkill River Development Corporation (SRDC), Mr. Syrnick — working with others — has guided efforts to revitalize a waterfront that had been blighted by a century of shipping, agriculture and industrial activity. Working with public and private agencies, corporations and institutions, SRDC has managed restoration of an 8-mile tidal section of the Schuylkill River now known as Schuylkill Banks.

The resulting trail and greenway are part of the planned 120-mile Schuylkill River Trail, which in 2015 earned recognition from USA Today as the “Best Urban Trail in America.” A 2,030-foot boardwalk featuring solar-powered lighting as well as ramps and stairway connections to the South Street Bridge earned a host of construction and design awards. By adding amenities such as a fishing pier and a trail bridge for bicyclists and pedestrians, SRDC is continuing to enhance a premier recreational destination that connects diverse Philadelphia neighborhoods and promotes environmental sustainability. A trail extension linking the National Historic Landmark Bartram's Garden to 61st Street replaced invasive plants with native trees, grasses and flowering perennials, providing stormwater management and a healthy habitat for wildlife. Drexel students, faculty and professional staff are among the many visitors who enjoy the riverfront park and trail every day.

The project has also fueled economic activity, generating hundreds of jobs for area residents, millions of dollars of tax revenue for the city and state and enhanced property values in diverse neighborhoods.

Mr. Syrnick joined SRDC in 2005, after a 34-year career with the City of Philadelphia, where he had been chief engineer and surveyor. While still working for the city, he helped build the initial Schuylkill Banks section of the Schuylkill River Trail that runs from the Philadelphia Art Museum to Locust Street.

He also served for decades as president of the Board of Surveyors and for 18 years as a commissioner of Fairmount Park.

In early 2008, former Mayor Michael Nutter named Mr. Syrnick to Philadelphia's City Planning Commission, where he currently serves as vice chairman.

Mr. Syrnick, who received his BS and MS in civil engineering from Drexel's College of Engineering, is a registered professional engineer and a professional land surveyor. He played varsity baseball at Drexel and captained the 1968 team.

For his visionary leadership in engaging diverse civic partners to revive the promise of a waterfront jewel in Philadelphia, Drexel University is proud to present Joseph R. Syrnick with the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

HISTORY of DREXEL UNIVERSITY

In the closing decades of the 19th century, Philadelphia financier and philanthropist Anthony J. Drexel envisioned an institution of higher learning uniquely suited to the needs of a rapidly growing industrial society and of the young men and women seeking their place in it. In 1891, he realized his vision with the establishment of the Drexel Institute of Art, Science and Industry.

In founding the Institute, Anthony J. Drexel launched a tradition of innovation, which Drexel University carries on today. Although distinguished by more than 125 years of growth and change, the University remains faithful to its founder's vision. Its expanded enrollment, campuses and curriculum reflect a determination to answer societal and individual needs, which Mr. Drexel sought to address in his day.

Originally a non-degree-granting institution, Drexel began conferring the Bachelor of Science degree in 1914, when its 18 departments were organized into four schools. In 1927, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania granted Drexel the privilege to confer the Master of Science degree, and in 1965, doctoral degrees. Drexel has undergone two changes in name, in 1936 becoming Drexel Institute of Technology and in 1970, Drexel University. The current name reflects the institution's commitment to research, as well as the breadth of its graduate programs.

Since its founding, Drexel has remained a privately controlled, nonsectarian, coeducational center of higher learning, distinguished by a commitment to preparing students for success in their chosen careers. The cornerstone of this career preparation is the University's cooperative-education program, which provides students with alternate periods of study and full-time professional employment related to their academic and career interests. Launched in 1919, Drexel's co-op program was among the first in the nation, and today it is one of the largest and most diverse, placing students nationally and globally as well as in unique research and entrepreneurial opportunities.

Another constant element in Drexel's identity has been its commitment to providing technological expertise for society's needs. The institution operated around the clock during World War II to serve 3,000+ visiting participants in the Engineering Defense Training Program. Following the war, rapid expansion of knowledge and the nation's drive for technological preeminence continued to drive growth at the University.

In 1983, Drexel became the nation's first university to require all undergraduates to have personal access to a microcomputer for use in their coursework. Drexel also was the nation's first major university to operate a fully wireless campus. A desire to bring its innovative brand of education to students everywhere resulted in the establishment of online academic programs in 2002.

Today, Drexel continues to build upon strengths in the fields of science and engineering, preparing professionals for leadership in our global technological community through studies in myriad disciplines. It houses impressive resources for teaching and research, as well as facilities to serve a large and growing population of residential students.

In 2002, Drexel's mission, services and opportunities expanded when MCP Hahnemann University, a major Philadelphia health sciences institution, became Drexel University College of Medicine, as well as Drexel's College of Nursing and Health Professions and the Dana and David Dornsife School of Public Health. This historic relationship allowed productive synergies in teaching and research.

In 2006, Drexel became the first major research university in 25 years to open a new law school. Receiving American Bar Association accreditation in 2011, it is one of only two law schools to follow a co-operative model. In 2014, the school was named for Philadelphia attorney Thomas R. Kline, a nationally renowned trial litigator, in recognition of his landmark gift.

In 2011, the University announced a groundbreaking affiliation with the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia, the nation's oldest major natural history museum and a world leader in natural sciences research.

The move has opened new opportunities for teaching, research and community education for both institutions.

Drexel became the first university with a freestanding, degree-granting entrepreneurship school when it launched the Charles D. Close School of Entrepreneurship in 2013.

Meanwhile, the institution's dedication to health care education and community service continues to grow. In partnership with Tower Health, Drexel acquired St. Christopher's Hospital for Children in 2019. Two years later, a regional medical campus known as the Drexel University College of Medicine at Tower Health was built in West Reading. And in 2024, Drexel will merge with Salus University, a distinguished institution based in Elkins Park that offers renowned graduate programs in optometry, audiology, blindness and low-vision studies, physician assistant studies, occupational therapy, speech-language pathology, orthotics and prosthetics, and more.

The University's progress has accelerated over the past decade with the construction of offices, life sciences labs, classrooms and public spaces in Drexel's Schuylkill Yards and uCity Square developments. These improvements set the stage for an innovation economy centered in West Philadelphia, advancing Drexel's partnerships with industry and its status as an R1 research institute.

Drexel University enrolls nearly 22,000 full- and part-time students in programs leading to associate's, bachelor's, master's, doctoral and professional degrees, including MD and JD. The University's record of success to date promises an auspicious future and testifies to the genius of Anthony J. Drexel's vision, which has shaped the growth of the institution since its inception.

The land on which Drexel University stands is Lenape land, and we pay respect and honor to the caretakers of this land, from time immemorial until now, and into the future. We openly recognize the Lenape Indian tribe as the original inhabitants of eastern Pennsylvania. Acknowledging this history is consistent with the University's commitment to diversity and inclusion. Drexel recognizes the historical links between the land on which the University sits and the Lenape peoples. We honor and respect the enduring relationship that exists between these peoples and nations and this land. This land acknowledgment is one small act in the ongoing process of working to be in good relationship with the land and the people of the land.
