Drexel University

Inspired by change,

Designed to lead.
Change is a constant driver of new ideas. Each and every day, innovation pushes the limit of what’s possible.

The next generation of leaders will be the ones who embrace this fact, the ones who use it as their guiding principle. Whether you’re looking to make an impact in the classroom, the laboratory, or out in your community, you must recognize the established boundaries and limitations...then use your ambition to move beyond them.

Since 1891, Drexel University has served as the launch pad for students ready to channel their passion, curiosity, and vision to change the world around them. Our unique academic model allows the University and our Dragons to remain at the forefront of possibility by not only studying the latest practices and theories but by putting them to the test alongside industry leaders and professionals.

You need a place that will allow you to challenge the norm: to make your mark while turning your aspirations into reality. Drexel not only provides you with the necessary knowledge, opportunities, and support structures to make a difference — we help you start today. Because your ambition can’t wait.

Let Your Ambition Lead the Way
Your education will serve as the foundation for everything you do. Whether you want to create an environment-friendly transportation system, develop brain mapping techniques to treat Alzheimer's Disease, or help propel criminal justice reform, you need an education that will prepare you to learn, grow, and excel.

Drexel’s dynamic curriculum is specifically designed to take you beyond the typical college experience, preparing you to meet the challenges of an ever-changing world. Here, your education will combine advanced academics with experiential learning, providing the opportunity to expand upon your classwork by working side by side with your professors, learning directly from the leaders of your field through our cooperative education program, gaining valuable experience in research, leveraging our organizational partnerships to participate in groundbreaking initiatives, and so much more.

At Drexel, you’ll be encouraged to take an active role in your education. Our unique model will put you on the front lines of innovation, allowing you to discover and explore the current practices, strategies, and breakthroughs that are actively being used to push the boundaries of what we know and can achieve. Then, you’ll bring new knowledge and viewpoints to enrich classroom discussion with your professors and classmates, ensuring the University’s offerings remain current, relevant, and market informed.

Because heroes can’t wait

The College of Nursing and Health Professions’ Disaster Simulation program presents students with emergency situations and requires them to respond in real time, allowing them to practice meeting catastrophic challenges — before they happen.

ESTABLISH YOUR INTELLECTUAL FOUNDATION

The ability to achieve your goals is rooted in the strength of your preparation, and the most effective preparation begins with superior academics.

Drexel provides an unparalleled classroom experience, where you’ll find rigorous and challenging courses presented in state-of-the-art facilities and taught by respected faculty composed of leaders and visionaries of their field. And the best part is that you won’t have to wait to get started. You’ll take classes in your major from the moment you arrive, along with preparatory courses to help you hit the ground running.

The Evolution of Your Education

Here, you’ll develop an interdisciplinary academic path designed to meet your interests. Your experience can incorporate a variety of concentrations and options — everything from entrepreneurship courses or our Bachelor of Arts in Law to our innovative economics and data science major — allowing you to build a comprehensive knowledge base applicable to your goals. Not only that, you’ll do so under the guidance of a dedicated team of advisors, counselors, and mentors focused on helping you to develop into a well-rounded scholar prepared to exceed all expectations.
Even while recognizing the intrinsic value and importance of classroom learning, you’ll need the chance to apply your knowledge in the real world to truly see just how everything fits together.

Our renowned cooperative education program, also known as co-op, will allow you to put what you’ve learned in class to the test. Co-op provides you with the opportunity to integrate up to 18 months of full-time professional work experience into your academic schedule. Each co-op experience built into your schedule — whether it be with a global organization, a nonprofit, a local startup, or even a government agency — presents a unique opportunity to see firsthand how the knowledge you’ve gained is currently being applied in the field and how the workplace is adapting to meet the evolving needs of employers. You can choose from a variety of academic calendars, allowing you to participate in up to three different co-op experiences. And the Steinbright Career Development Center, our world-class cooperative education and career preparation resource, will be here to help you every step of the way.

The Value of Experience
So much more than just a standard internship, co-op allows you to take real positions with respected companies, enabling you to test-drive your career while building an impressive résumé before you graduate. The majority of these positions are full-time and paid, and those that are carry a median six-month salary of over $19,000. And when you return to class, you’ll be ready to apply your newfound knowledge to your courses and to serve as a valuable resource to your classmates and professors, able to share enhanced insights and perspectives that can’t be found in any textbook.

FIND THE GUIDANCE YOU NEED TO LAND A POSITION YOU LOVE
Your intellectual interest is one of your most valuable traits, and Drexel emphasizes the importance of asking questions and finding meaningful answers — it’s what has helped us emerge as one of the nation’s leading R1-level research universities. Our facilities and courses are designed to enable you to go further and discover more about the world around you. From state-of-the-art labs to our innovative Expressive and Creative Interaction Technologies (ExCITe) Center, Drexel presents a number of unique research opportunities that will encourage you to collaborate and learn from your peers and research mentors.

If you’re eager to gain research experience, you may be interested in the Students Tackling Advanced Research (STAR) Scholars Program. This 10-week program will allow you to conduct a faculty-mentored research or creative project in the summer of your first year. STAR concludes with student presentations, along with the possibility of presenting work at local, regional, and national conferences. STAR Scholars’ work has also been published in major research journals.

Explore Your Curiosity and See Where It Leads
As a Drexel student, you can take your education abroad. Have you ever had the opportunity to live and learn in another country, fully immersing yourself in an entirely different culture? Our team can help you make it happen. You’ll not only gain a broadened perspective and earn course credit, but you’ll also deepen your understanding of yourself and how our cross-cultural relationships can affect the global issues that face our society.

In addition to studying abroad, Drexel students interested in pursuing global opportunities can also participate in international co-op or programs that combine the two experiences.

EXPAND THE HORIZONS OF YOUR LEARNING

DARE TO BRING YOUR IDEAS TO LIFE

You may feel that you have the entrepreneurial spirit, but have you ever put that feeling to the test to see just what you could accomplish? Whether you’ve already started your own company or you have an idea and want to create a startup, Drexel offers the guidance you need to develop a true entrepreneurial mindset and the resources to take your endeavors to the next level.

The Charles D. Close School of Entrepreneurship is the nation’s first independent school of entrepreneurship to offer degrees, with options including a three-year accelerated plan of study and more traditional four- and five-year programs. Even if you’re interested in other majors, Drexel has infused entrepreneurial thinking and application into the curriculums and courses across all disciplines.

Hit the Ground Running

Entrepreneurial co-ops encourage students to take the lead and are granted to those who have established an ongoing business, providing $19,000 in funding, mentorships, and a dedicated workspace in our Baiada Institute for Entrepreneurship.

Since our founding in 1891, Drexel has been proud to call Philadelphia our hometown. It's a place where history was made: This is where the Founding Fathers of the United States outlined the Declaration of Independence, drafted the Constitution, and forged American democracy. Philly has a no-nonsense, revolutionary feel to it, and Drexel students embody that. We refer to the city as our extended campus, where you can explore, learn, and take advantage of all it has to offer.

Philly is a bustling, cosmopolitan city composed of quaint neighborhoods, each one different from the next. If you head to Fairmount, you’ll be able to enjoy some of Philadelphia’s great museums; in South Philly, you can try some of the best local foods, like our famous cheesesteak; and a few blocks away in Old City, you’ll see and hear artists and musicians who have made Philly their home. Our part of town, known as University City, is recognized as the heart of the city’s higher learning community.

Everything that Philly has to offer is within easy reach. And if you don’t feel like walking, Philadelphia’s public transportation system can get you there. Drexel is blocks away from 30th Street Station, a transportation hub with access to subways, buses, regional trains, and Amtrak.

Do you have the drive to help others? Drexel is committed to becoming the most civically engaged university in the nation, and we hold the promotion of inclusivity, equity, justice, and opportunity for individuals within our local communities and across the globe as an institutional priority.

At Drexel, you’ll be introduced to the concepts, methods, and skills required for effective engagement through our CIVC 101 course. Presented by the Lindy Center for Civic Engagement, this introductory course will immerse you as an active participant, providing the opportunity to see the benefits of public service firsthand as you collaborate with neighborhood philanthropic organizations and nonprofits.

Partnerships With Purpose

The Lindy Center partners with leaders on local, national, and international levels to provide additional volunteer initiatives and community-based learning courses that address a wide variety of areas of public good and social responsibility, including education, health care, and community advocacy. Through these experiences, our students are encouraged to learn, engage, and reflect in order to grow as engaged citizens ready to make a meaningful impact by furthering the principles of community partnership and social justice within their homes and throughout the world.

We are Drexel Dragons. It’s a distinction and a badge of honor we cherish; one that shapes everything we do. We work hard, we play hard, and we dream big ... and we do it together.

Dragons have an undeniable inner fire that motivates us to achieve more. Whether it be in the classroom, out on co-op, building new student organizations, or while taking on challengers at the athletic courts, we’re always on the move and looking to make our mark.

When you become a Dragon, you’ll be joining a supportive community built on diversity, equality, fairness, inclusion, and respect — here, everyone has a voice and is encouraged to use it. No matter what our differences may be, we band together and support each other as we strive to achieve our goals. Although we may come from all walks of life, our bond and kinship go far beyond our differences. A Dragon is a Dragon for life.
Life on campus will be a big part of the college experience, especially in a fast-paced urban environment like Philadelphia. Our Dragons view Drexel’s campus as their own little corner of the city: the perfect spot to live, study, and play.

In order to ensure you’ll have every opportunity to fully immerse yourself in campus life, we have a 2-Year Residency Program, which requires all incoming first-year students (with a few exceptions) to live on campus for their first two years at Drexel. But whether you’re living here or commuting to school, you’ll quickly find that there is a lot to experience at Drexel outside of classes. If you’ll be living on campus, our residence halls have accommodations to meet your needs — from suites to Living Learning Communities, where you can connect with students who have similar interests, there are plenty of options.

Connecting All Dragons
If you’re transferring to Drexel, you can choose between our on-campus residence halls and Drexel-affiliated housing options, which offer all of the benefits of off-campus living while being able to stay in close proximity to school. Students opting to commute to class are encouraged to get involved and connect with campus life through our Community Student Association and the Student Centers and Engagement Team.

While we know you’ll be focused on becoming an accomplished scholar, your life at Drexel won’t be just studying and homework. At Drexel, you can get involved with over 300 student clubs and organizations. These groups revolve around academics, hobbies, and more. So, no matter what your interests are, you’ll find groups of like-minded Dragons. And if you can’t find an organization that’s right for you, we’ll provide the resources to help you start your own.

Also, no matter what your major, you can participate in the performing arts and are eligible for performing arts scholarships. There is a broad array of opportunities, including taking classes and private lessons and auditioning for professional-level dance, music, or theater ensembles, which are led by accomplished members of the Philadelphia arts community.

Whether you’d like to get involved with Greek life, participate in on-campus performances, or choreograph your own Jedi Knight lightsaber duel, you can do it all at Drexel.

Although Drexel is known for its academic excellence, here you can also be a star athlete. Our Drexel Dragons are fierce competitors, and they participate on 18 Division I NCAA teams. Each year, over 460 students play against the nation’s best, and we play to win.

If you prefer to cheer on our Drexel Dragons, the DAC Pack is our most school-spirited student organization. Decked out in your best blue and gold, you can root for our teams with your friends and classmates.

Always on the Move

You can also take on a more relaxed level of competition by joining one of our club or intramural sports teams alongside the more than 9,700 students, faculty, and staff who participate in Drexel’s recreational programs each year.

When you want to get a great workout or just have some fun with friends, Drexel has the fields, courts, and indoor and outdoor locations you need. This includes our volleyball and tennis courts, the Vidas Athletic Complex, the Daskalakis Athletic Center (also known as the DAC), and our award-winning Recreation Center.

<tr>
<td>Open Houses</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Open Houses take place on exclusive weekends throughout the year. You and your family will get an in-depth look at academic programs, connect with current Dragons, and experience our dynamic urban campus firsthand.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Campus Visits</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Campus Visits are offered throughout the year Mondays through Fridays and on most Saturdays. Each Campus Visit includes an Information Session and student-guided campus tour. The Information Session highlights Drexel's cooperative education program, our academic offerings, and the admission and financial aid processes. Plus, there’s plenty of time for you to ask any questions. During the campus tour, you’ll take a look at our academic buildings, recreation center, and a residence hall.</td>

</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Connect With Counselors</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>You can also meet with admissions representatives at a variety of events. Students are invited to these events, which are held all over the country and the world — from college fairs to high school visits to regional receptions. If you are unable to meet with us in person, we also participate in virtual college fairs and are available for individual meetings online to answer your questions.</td>
