

Celebrate Black History Month

How do your identity and culture affect your mental health?

February is Black History Month, a time to recognize and celebrate the achievements of African Americans and their many contributions to society.

However, continued racism and discrimination can negatively impact the mental health of black individuals. That's why SupportLinc offers confidential support and online resources to reduce stigma and help combat mental health concerns in the face of racial trauma.

Download the mobile app today

1-888-881-LINC (5462)

supportlinc.com