DUL Mission

- “Supporting education and research through services that provide convenient, reliable and efficient access to information resources.”
- Promote lifelong learning and to provide access to high quality information.
  - Students can and should take advantage of resources and services offered by academic libraries while attending university.”

Librarians are here to support your studies including direct assistance with research and accessing tools/resources you need to be successful.

The screenshot shows the Drexel University Libraries website. At the top left is the Drexel University logo. The main navigation bar includes links for RESEARCH SUPPORT, ARCHIVES, SERVICES, NEWS & EVENTS, and ABOUT. Below this is a search bar with a yellow search button. To the right of the search bar is a QUICKLINKS section with a list of services: Reserve an Individual Seat in the Library, Reserve a Group Study Room, Printing at the Libraries, Hours, My Library Account, Borrow from other libraries, and Browse Subject Guides. Below the search bar is a yellow banner with the text "Visit, Chat, Email, Call, Schedule, or Drop In" and a large white arrow pointing right with the word "ADVICE" inside it. Below the banner is a NEWS section with a list of recent news items. At the bottom right of the website is a CHAT widget with the title "CHAT" and the text "Chat with Drexel Libraries!". The widget has a text input field and a Submit button.

FINDING JOURNAL ARTICLES

“Why’d they have to go and make things so complicated?”

Electronic journals may be:

- Stand-alone subscriptions (often academic/professional society journals)
- Contained in publisher packages/platforms (Elsevier Science Direct, Taylor & Francis, Springer)
- In aggregated collections (journals@OVID, ProQuest, Ingenta)
  - Journals in aggregated collections often have embargo periods (most recent year or more not available)
- (And any of these may be subscription-only or Open Access)

For journals available through subscriptions or licensing:

Journal platforms need verification that you're part of the Drexel University community:

- We currently use a “proxy” system that requires you to access journal sites through the Drexel Libraries website, signing in with your Drexel Connect credentials (email ID and password)
- Some journal platforms are now also using a single-sign on option (Shibboleth): look for “sign in with your institution” or similar links.

Getting a journal article

- From a Drexel Libraries-subscribed database
- From Google Scholar
- When I have a random citation
- When we don't have access to the article I need
- When I want to browse the latest issue of my favorite journals

Ethical considerations for mandating food worker vaccination during outbreaks: an analysis of hepatitis A vaccine

Abstract

A widespread global outbreak of Hepatitis A virus (HAV) has prompted regulations in a few cities in the United States (US) mandating HAV vaccination of food service workers. This Viewpoint considers the global impact of HAV, analyzes ethical issues pertinent to recent mandatory vaccination regulations and the core values of public health. It explores the health and rights of stakeholders and ethical criteria for mandatory vaccination that could be applied globally with the ethical codes of the World Health Organization and the American Public Health Association. The goal is to help create ethical guidance for determining under what conditions, and for what populations, should regulations be created requiring vaccination for a communicable disease.

You can also set up “Get it @ Drexel” linking in Google Scholar!

The screenshot shows the Google Scholar settings page. On the left, there is a navigation menu with options: Search results, Languages, Library links (highlighted in red), Account, and Button. The main content area is titled "Show library access links for (choose up to five libraries):". Below this title is a search input field with a magnifying glass icon to its right. Below the input field, there is an example text "e.g., Harvard". Underneath, there is a list of three checked items: "Drexel University - Get It@Drexel", "DREXEL UNIVERSITY - ProQuest Fulltext", and "Open WorldCat - Library Search". At the bottom of the settings area, there is a paragraph of text: "Online access to library subscriptions is usually restricted to patrons of that library. You may need to login with your library password, use a campus computer, or configure your browser to use a library proxy. Please visit your library's website or ask a local librarian for assistance." Below this text are two buttons: "Save" (blue) and "Cancel" (grey). At the very bottom of the page, there is a note: "To retain settings, you must turn on cookies".

CITATION MANAGEMENT TOOLS

Citation Management

When to cite?

- Using a direct quotation, even if it is in quotation marks.
- Using facts that are not common knowledge.
- Paraphrasing or rewriting the author's ideas.
- Summarizing the data or argument of an author.
- Using the key words or phrases of the author or using synonyms.
- Writing a sentence that mostly consists of your own thoughts but makes a reference to another author's ideas.

Styles

- APA 7th edition
- AMA 11th edition
- Chicago 17th ed
- MLA 9th edition

Importance of staying organized

- Citation managers are a great tool to help you manage and organize your research as you work through your graduate studies.
- Citation managers like Zotero and Mendeley can be a great way to store different articles and your notes on them, organize your citations, and integrate your citations into a Word document.

- A tool that can help you build a personal library of source information from articles, books, documents, web pages, and more
- Saves you time and your sanity once you've compiled all your references for a bibliography

Software vs. website version

Software

Best for working on comprehensive or long-term projects like a thesis or dissertation

Ability to build a large research library of resources including attaching PDFs and making notes

Can share library of resource for work on collaborative projects

Must download software and create an account

Website

Best when writing a short paper with minimal citations

Can create quick, one-off citations

No software download

No account creation

Advantage of software version

- Add content into library
  - Web browser connector
  - Store PDFs
  - Edit records
- Organize collections of records
- Generate bibliographies
- Make in-text citations using Word add-in

Now your turn

- Open up tabs of saved library records and add them into your Citation Management tool of choice via browser connector
- Compile everything into a bibliography via “Create bibliography”
