

Descriptive statement (May be biographical):

Brief statement of contents: 1 scrapbook (1878-1922) -- The identification of the compiler of this scrapbook is unknown at this time, but it appears that one person collected photographs from various women physicians who practiced in China, Ceylon, and India. The photos depict women and children and picture the hospitals at which they were treated. Although the scrapbook contains mainly photographs, there are also drawings and some printed materials. One section near the end of the book is dedicated to printed material on the history of medicine. All parts of the collection have been carefully labeled by the compiler as to when the item was received, from whom and what its subject is. Approximate time covered by the book: August, 1878-March 192

Some of the women physicians contributing photographs to this scrapbook are Dr. Elizabeth Reifsnyder, Dr. Anna S. Kugler, Dr. M. Pauline Root, and Dr. Mary Grascom. Hospitals shown are located in mainly India and China although there are others. Examples of some are the Margaret Williamson Hospital (Shanghai, China), the Cama Hospital for Women and Children (Bombay, India), and The Guntur Hospital (Guntur, India). Diseases, abnormalities, and treatments dealt with in these photographs include ovarian tumors, foot binding, elephantitis, spina bifida, xiphopagus, etc.
