

MCP Hahnemann University
Archives and Special Collections on Women in Medicine Transfer Record

Accession #: 2000.39

Date: October 30, 2000

Source: Archives Department

Object: photograph: image of the key to the Arch Street building in which Hahnemann began teaching in 1848, and than MCP started classes in 1850; the key is an artifact from the collections of MCP Hahnemann University Archives and was photographed for use in publications

Date: photograph - 2000
key - c. 1848

Notes: The key (an important symbol of the beginnings of both schools, which coincidentally began each of their existence in the same Arch Street building) had not been photographed until this time as far as the Archivists knew. The Alumnae/i Association wanted to use an image of the key on their letterhead, and so requested that it be photographed for this purpose. There is ~~one~~<sup>or</sup> both black + white + a color image of this object
