WHAT OUR STUDENTS SAY

“By learning how to live and adjust in another country, I have gained more exposure to another culture, way of life, and set of health beliefs. All of these things affect the health of a population and shape the types of health issues that are prevalent. This experience has been very informative, especially because, in the United States, the lived experience of health is quite different from many parts of the world. I have greatly appreciated the opportunity to learn about a multitude of different topics in a real sense, from talking to people or seeing them myself.”

- Mariah Menanno, Senior, Public Health
